Jane: The Warmth of other Suns by Isabel Wilkerson. A book about the great migration of blacks from the south to the north. I never knew anything about this growing up. Wish their story would have been part of our history class.

Bettye: The Brownsville Texas Incident of 1906: The True and Tragic Story of a Black Battalion's Wrongful Disgrace and Ultimate Redemption, Red Engine Press, May 2020. This is the story of racial justice when one committed officer, stationed at the Pentagon in 1972, Major William Baker, reversed President Theodore Roosevelt's decision to discharge without honor 167 soldiers of the First Battalion Twenty-fifth Infantry, falsely accused of shooting up the town of Brownsville, Texas in 1906.

Ryan: I finished "Say Nothing" by Patrick Radden Keene and thought it was an incredible story about the Troubles in Northern Ireland. Would warmly recommend to anyone looking for a fascinating non-fiction story.

Susan: Speak Peace in a World of Conflict: What You Say Next Will Change Your World by Dr. Marshall B. Rosenberg.

Richard: "Wilmington's LIE, The murderous coup of 1898 and the rise of white supremacy" by David Zucchino

Susan: The Butchering Art, by Joseph Lister
